NBA CONVENTION HANDOUTS
GUMSHOE 101 for Players

General Abilities are how you get stuff done.

Sneaking, fighting, running… all these are done with General Abilities. If you have a General Ability rating of 8 or higher, you’re incredibly talented at that activity (and may get access to cool bonus stuff when using it, depending on which GUMSHOE game you’re playing). If you don’t have any rating at all in a General Ability, you stink at it and won’t generally succeed at non-trivial tasks. A 0 in Driving, for instance, lets you drive to the store and back but you’d fail at any driving maneuvers difficult enough to require a die roll. In comparison, an 8 in Driving makes you an expert wheelman. Similarly, a 0 in Shooting means you’re no good whatsoever at using firearms, while an 8 or higher in Shooting makes you an expert marksman. You get the idea.

It’s traumatic for your dicebag, but in GUMSHOE you’ll only need one die: a d6. Roll it. Your Target Number is usually 4; remember that. If you roll a 4 or higher with a General Ability like Athletics, you probably succeed.

Obviously, that would mean you only succeed half the time. You raise these odds by spending points from your General Ability pools and adding them to your d6 roll. Want to shoot someone? Spend 2 points from your shooting pool, add it to your d6, and you usually only fail if you roll a 1. Spend 3 points and you’re guaranteed to hit even on a d6 roll of 1 (as 1 + 3 = the target number of 4). When your pool drops to 0, you’re stuck just rolling a d6 until you get a rest and the GM says your pool refreshes.

Don’t be shy about spending these points. Dropping enemies quickly is a great idea, and you’ll have chances for your pools to refresh.

Investigative Abilities are how you learn stuff.

They’re what makes GUMSHOE games unique. Ignore your General Abilities for a second and look over at your Investigative Abilities. These are broken into three sections to make things easier to find – academic, interpersonal and technical knowledge – but they all work pretty much the same way. If you have 1 or more points in any of these, you’re an expert at it. This matters because during the game, all you need to do is tell the GM that you’re using an appropriate ability and you’ll automatically get the clue if there is one. Yes, automatically, no roll required. The fun here is in what you do with that information, not how you get it.

So let’s say you’re searching a private library for vital information. The GM may ask, “Do you have any points in Research?” Say yes and she’ll tell you everything you can find out. No roll is ever required. Same thing with Interpersonal Abilities; if you have Flattery, tell the GM you’re flattering someone (or better yet, roleplay it) and it will pay off.

Spend these points to get cool in-game advantages. Take the interpersonal ability Flirting, for example. You meet the evil mastermind’s stunningly attractive protégé. Tell the GM you’re Flirting with the NPC, and he or she will let slip important clues during the banter. Tell the GM you’re spending 1 or more Flirting points to get cool stuff, though, and you’ll get a special benefit; in this case, the protégé may become infatuated with you and double-cross his or her boss at the best possible time.

Just remember, spending a point from an Investigative Ability doesn’t stop you from knowing that topic. It just limits how many times in a game you can ask for special cool stuff.

And really? That’s it. Your GM can tell you anything else you need to know.

SPECIAL THRILLER CHASE RULES

ATTKING DURING CHASES
- Spend 3 from chase pool (no spend needed for passengers)
- +1 to Hit Threshold of target

GEAR DEVIL
- Requires Driving or Piloting 8+ and descriptive phrase
- Grants 3-point refresh once per chase

PARKOUR
- Requires Athletics 8+ and descriptive phrase
- Grants 3-point Athletics refresh once per chase

RAMMING
- Lead must be 1 or 2
- Spend 3 points from chase pool
- Player always rolls against Difficulty 4
- Ram rolls use only the following modifiers and rules:
  On the offensive (ramming):
  - The player adds her vehicle’s Maneuver to the Difficulty of 4, plus any other spends she makes. (Heavier vehicles lower Difficulty.)
  - If she fails, she must spend 2 points immediately from her chase pool; if her pool is insufficient, the Lead alters in the opposition’s favor by 1 for every point by which she falls short.
  - If she succeeds, the Lead alters in her favor by 1.
  - If she rolls an unmodified 6 and succeeds, the other vehicle crashes.

SUDDEN ESCAPE (RUNNER ONLY)
- Requires Lead 7+ and success in chase round contest
- Make another General test at Difficulty 1 higher than previous contest
- Success: escape the chase instead of changing Lead
- Failure: crash or fall, double damage

SWERVE
- Requires equal or higher Maneuver rating; must be in third+ round of chase
- Spend 3 points from chase pool
- Ignore Speed bonus on next roll
- Next Lead change is doubled

TAKE THE WHEEL!

- NPC driver takes over; your chase rolls at +1 Difficulty
- If runner, cannot Raise while NPC is driving

INVESTIGATIVE ABILITIES
Any investigator can influence the chase with an investigative ability. This is usually free. Each ability can be used once (per party, per chase).

BENEFITS
- Partial refresh of the chase ability: best when the benefit harder to quantify, or when it involves a brief respite.
- Difficulty adjustment: reflects positional or tactical advantages.
- Opposition spends first: reflects something that forces the enemy to slow down or become predictable.
- Opposition pool reductions: best when a change in the chase puts the other side at a sudden and dramatic disadvantage.
- Lead change: best when a change in the chase puts the agents at a sudden and dramatic advantage.
- Special Rule setup: allows a specific special rule such as a Swerve or Sudden Escape, either earlier or easier than normal.

You manifest PTSD the night after a horrific incident involving a flying monstrosity. A noted Geneva specialist then cares you and sends you back into the fray.

Later, a firefight in a bat-filled temple to Hecate in Sicily shatters you again. You develop an Obsession (specifically a fear of the dark), which manifests immediately and sends you screaming out of the cave. The Director rules that bats and darkness are close enough to flying monstrosities to potentially re-trigger your PTSD; you roll
